THE WEATHER

Increasing cloudiness, continued cold tonight. Clouds and warmer tomorrow; lowest temperature tonight in the lower 20's; moderate west in southwest winds.

Boston, Feb. 11 (INS)—Five rebel fighting planes were shot down in flames on the Atlantic front today, a local communication said.

With the report from Commissioner Kirk following the report in Boston State Hospital and the Wrentham charges, it was felt at the State House that a crisis had come in the administration of state institutions.

These startling disclosures came on the heels of the charges that "revolting" conditions exist at Wrentham State School—that boys there, some feeble-minded, have been abused by attendants.

Wrentham trustees were summoned to the governor's office to explain alleged conditions. Dr. N. Nelson, chief of the state department of communicable diseases, and Dr. Thomas Cavanaugh of the department of public health immediately began examinations of patients in the school.

Most of the buildings in this group are branded as fire-traps in the report. To make conditions even "livable," expenditures of $2,908,000 are needed, Kirk declared.

On the other hand, it was disclosed that the department of mental diseases had asked appropriations totaling $576,100 for fireproofing buildings and installing sprinkler systems for seven of the group of institutions Kirk named—and for two others—and that Governor Hurley cut that figure to $90,000 in his budget message.

G. M. PLANTS TO OPEN AS STRIKERS LEAVE

Detroit, Feb. 11 (INS)—Officially ending the most costly strike in the 36-year-old history of the automotive industry, General Motors and the United Auto Workers Union signed a pact of peace today.

Almost simultaneously, the $1,500,000,000 corporation announced a five-cent-an-hour increase for all of its American workers. The increase will boost the company payroll by $25,000,000 a year.

Great industrial drama was made in the drab surroundings of a courtroom here as representatives from both sides in the labor war affixed their signatures to the peace agreement which had been announced at 2:35 a. m., after more than 50 hours of secret conferences.

After the document was signed at 11:45 a. m., Governor Frank Murphy, President Roosevelt's personally delegated mediator, revealed officially the terms of the agreement.

WORKERS' UNION RECOGNIZED

By its terms, General Motors recognized the Auto Workers' Union as the collective bargaining agent for its own members only and agreed to begin negotiations next Tuesday on the union's demands.

Termination of the strike and evacuation of plants now occupied by sit-down strikers was agreed to by the union while the corporation pledged resumption "as rapidly as possible" of idle plants without discrimination against union employees.

The union agreed that no strikes shall be called pending the beginning of negotiations and it was further agreed that no strike order would be issued during the life of the pact unless "all opportunities" to achieve a satisfactory settlement had been exhausted.

A major concession of the corporation was its willingness to abide by dismissal of injunction proceedings against the union, both in Michigan and Ohio.

Terms of the strike settlement were announced as follows:

1—The corporation hereby recognizes the union as the collective bargaining agency for those employees of the corporation who are members of the union.

"The corporation recognizes and will not interfere with the right of its employees to be members of the union. There shall be no discrimination, interference, restraint, or coercion by the corporation or any of its agents against any employee because of membership in the union.

"2—The corporation and the union agree to commence collective bargaining negotiations on February 16 with regard to the issues specified in the letter of January 4, 1937 from the union to the corporation for the purpose of entering into collective bargaining agreements, or agreements, covering such issues, looking to a final and complete settlement of all matters in dispute.

"3—The union agrees to forthwith terminate the present strike against the corporation, and to evacuate all plants now occupied by strikers.

"4—The corporation agrees that all of its plants, which are on strike or otherwise idle shall resume operations as rapidly as possible.

"5—It is understood that all employees now on strike or otherwise idle will return to their usual work when called and that no discrimination shall be made or prejudices exercised by the corporation against any employee because of his former affiliation with, or activities in, the union or present strike.

"6—The union agrees that pending the negotiations referred to in paragraph 2, there shall be no strikes called or any other interruption to or interference with production, by the union or its members.

"7—During the existence of the collective bargaining agreement contemplated pursuant to paragraph 2 all opportunities to achieve satisfactory settlement or any grievance or the enforcement of any demands by negotiation shall be exhausted, before there shall be any strikes or other interruption to or interference with production by the union or its members. There shall be no attempts to intimidate or coerce any employees by the union and there shall not be any solicitation or signing up of members by the union on the premises of the company.

"This is not to preclude individual discussion.

"8—After the evacuation of the strike the corporation agrees to consent to the entry of orders, dismissing the injunction proceedings which have been started by the corporation against the union, or any of its members, or officers or any of its locals, including those pending in Flint, Michigan, and Cleveland, Ohio, and subject to the approval of the court to discontinue all contempt proceedings which it has instituted thereunder."

UNION FEARS QUETTED

The quiet asserted apprehension in union circles that General Motors might negotiate with the strikers in order to undermine the U. W. A. the corporation denied. The corporation denied the suggestion of any such action, stating that it would not bargain with any group until it had first gained the sanction of General Motors.

LETTER TO GOVERNOR

The terms of the agreement were outlined by a letter from General Motors, a list of General Motors plants, CIO director. The letter of the company to the governor follows:

"Hon. Frank Murphy, Governor of Michigan:

"We have been informed by the United Automobile Workers of America in justification of their strike that they fear that without proper protection of some kind they might be subjected to a violent and deliberate attempt to undermine the position of this particular union.

"We have said that we had no such intention.

"On the other hand we can not enter into any agreement with anyone which can lay the basis of denying to any group of our employees the right to collective bargaining, which it is entitled and which falls in protection of the rights of our employees.

"We are not, therefore, prepared to undertake not to seek or to inquire such activities on the part of other groups for the purpose of weakening this particular union.

"This understanding we assume on condition that the union refrain from coercion and intimidation of this union.

"As evidence of our intention to do all we can to hasten the resumption of work in our plants and to promote peace and harmony between you, that within a period of six months from the resumption of work, we will enter into collective bargaining with you or representative of employees of plants on strike in respect to such matters of general corporate policy as referred to in letter of January 11 without first consulting with you the facts of the situation and calling for the sanction of any such contemplated procedure, as being justified by law, equity or public interest, to the group of employees towards the group of employees on strike.

ST-15'S CHEER PEACE 'SURPRISE'

Flint, Mich., Feb. 11 (UPI)—End of the "million dollar day" General Motors strike today gave Flint the biggest surprise since Armistice Day.

Spontaneous cheering rang out in the three General Motors plants when news of the strike settlement in Detroit was received but most strikers were dubious at first that there actually was peace.

With a city of 100,000 with most of its 50,000 factory workers employed in new General Motors plants, had been in the throes of one of the worst strikes in modern times.

I had heard reports that the strike was settled before only to see them turn out to be false hopes and this accounted for the fact that I was so skeptical.

"But," continued Bradshaw, "you would only have to look at the strikers, ordering their cars to the streets to see how happy Flint is today. These cars are so new and so beautiful."

AS I SEE IT

A lady of the cinema, to wit, Miss Dietrich, visited a Broadway night club this week, and on departing at 4 a. m. was well-nigh mobbed by 2000 of the proletariat waiting in the street.

Let us hasten to report that there was no malice in the mobbing. It was a spontaneous expression of the patrons of the cinema. On the contrary, many of the folks were probably ardent admirers of the lady's well-known histrionic talent as presented on the screen in various colonial, and but wished to get a first-hand peek at her.

The others were merely obeying that primal urge of the average inmate of the big city which we hold in largely responsible for the constant spread of general information in New York. It is the urge to kibitz, or rubberneck, and as a resident of New York we get no little civic pride in the fact that it can turn out 2000 kibitzers at 4 a. m.

This urge is often criticized by visitors to New York as idle, and vulgar curiosity. They do not understand that it is prompted by a thirst for knowledge. When the visitor sees a large crowd watching men dig a hole, he seldom realizes that the New Yorker wishes to inform himself as to the exact method of digging a hole.

The visitor is apt to go away thinking they are watching the digging because they have nothing else to do, and thus the rumor gets abroad that we have a great many unemployed in this town.

Tribute to City

We hold that the crowd that waited to see Miss Dietrich is a tribute to the big town's alertness. Where else in all this country could you find 2000 persons awake at four o'clock in the morning.

And yet jealous city rivals are likely to claim that this amazing showing is not only a slight reflection upon the sense of privacy and restraint, but was due mainly to the fact the kibitzers had no place to sleep.

They would imply, we presume, that the great city of New York, one of the richest in all this world, permits some of its citizens to walk the streets all night, leafless. If you are a New Yorker, you know this cannot be true. You know that we have any number of fine hotels in this town. Our rivals are always twisting our credits into knots.

The insatiable thirst for knowledge of the New Yorker is entirely misunderstood, and generally misconstrued by the visitor.

A group of urticae with their little faces pressed against the warm window pane of a rotisserie, watching the rows of roasting fowl turning on the spits, might appear a picture of hunger to a visitor, but the New Yorker knows that the children are merely studying the cooking of chicken.

The sidewalks outside a theater on a big opening night in New York are usually jammed with men and women, some of them not too well dressed, watching the furred and diamonded ladies, and high-batted gowns unloading from their limousines, and strangers sometimes get the impression that the sidewalk crowds are drawn there by idle curiosity.

Not at all. Not by any manner of means. The sidewalk spectators are simply studying the weird problem of why they are so threadbare, while so many persons with such peculiar faces are richly clad.

Of course, they do not include in their contemplation the dramatic critics. The sidewalk spectators can always spot the dramatic critics, the ones who do not wear ermine overcoats.

We do not say this study solves the problem mentioned in our observations of the first-night thoughts undoubtedly expands the knowledge of the sidewalk spectators on various other points.

They can go home and instruct their children in how a lady wears her orchids, which may be very useful instruction in case the children ever get hold of any orchids.

Sooties Gaze

When a celebrity, like Miss Dietrich, comes to our town, our people like to get a good close-up. They do not want to miss a single detail, and in Miss Dietrich's case, we are sure we do not blame them. Miss Dietrich is said to be very something to the jaw, and besides, she might be wearing a knee-length gown.

There is nothing rude, or vulgar, about the curiosity of the New Yorker. We especially resent the suggestion of jealous rivals that the real reason our people like to get close to a human object of their curiosity is to get a few fingers in a convenient pocket. This, we insist, is libel.

The New Yorker has a warm, healthy interest in all that is going on around him—a dog fight, a traffic cop, a motorist, a lady chasing a gentleman up a street, a peevish display in a show window, a physician explaining his mistakes, a new slot machine, a couple of pickaninnies dancin' on a sidewalk.

If it, we repeat, a normal, happy urge to acquire information. And it is not a meddling curiosity. He rarely troubles himself with such minor details as the misconduct of a public office. He is interested about interfering with anybody's racket by offering himself as a witness. He does not like to serve as a juror.

If you asked him what he thought of the slums problem, he would think you meant something in the third race at Hialeah. But, to bring in a somewhat crazy story, if you told him a nude lady was going to ride a white horse down Broadway inside of the next hour, he would break down four partitions getting out into the street.

It has been a long time since he has seen a white horse.

FLOOD ALONG MISSISSIPPI CONQUERED

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 11 (AP)—Dreaders along the mid-Mississippi valley after standing for two days at a record peak of 48.67 feet and the danger now shifted southward where the pink and chert bluffs confidently named the levee line.

Caution army engineers maintained a sharp watch on levees from Memphis down, but the influence of women and children remaining in unsheltered homes in Cairo, Ill., set the tone for a feeling of relief all along the river.

The Mississippi began a slow recession here after standing for two days at a record peak of 48.67 feet and the danger now shifted southward where the pink and chert bluffs confidently named the levee line.

LEVEES HOLDING
Observers agreed the fall probably would be as gradual as the rise, but with the line of earthworks holding thus far, local State engineers were confident of final victory.

Fair and colder weather aided the retreat as they fought seepage and mudslides. Additional levees in the south of Memphis were founded where the Mississippi backed tributary streams out of the banks.

Heavily continued in the vicinity of Tusculum, Miss., for two young volunteers, relief workers from Tennessee, making among their small army in the south of Memphis the Mississippi river near Peter's Landing, Ark. Two companies departed.

The Mississippi passed a stage of 48.67 feet at Vicksburg on Feb. 10, although the big river showed no signs of "leveling off" yet.

Pulaski, Ky., looked toward its levee with a great deal of interest, fearing that the Ohio would fail suddenly by Monday to permit merchants to reopen houses.

The floods' death toll near the mouth of the river.

Timothy to Welcome
Police Flood Heroes

Twenty-five members of the Boston police department who went to Louisville for flood duty will return to Boston tonight. They will arrive at the South Station at 11 p. m. It was announced today by Commissioner Timothy.

Two dead, totaling 29 men, were sent to Louisville. Two have already returned home. Three have been left behind and two others are questioned on the train.

The two men who are to share the train are Sergeant John J. Hynes and Frank J. Higgins.

The three men who remained in the South are Sergeant Herbert Dwyer and Patrolmen John C. Dwyer and Thomas Johnson.

They were ordered to leave Saturday if they are sufficiently able to travel.

Woman Killed, Dog Riding With Her Escapes Injury

Here's the wreckage of the automobile struck by a train on Ames road crossing, Worcester, killing its driver, Mrs. Bertha L. Brink, mother of two. The woman's pet dog, a Boston terrier, was sitting on the front seat, stunned, but unharmed, when rescuers arrived.

Mother of 2 Killed As Train Crushes Car in Worcester

Worcester, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Bertha L. Brink of 21 Sunrise avenue, 35-year-old mother of two children, was crushed to death today when her sedan was struck by a train on Ames road crossing.

Stranded just above when the train crew reached the wreckage, near her front bumper, still on the ground next to her.

Mrs. Brink, wife of Carl B. Brink, Greenfield filling station proprietor and worker in a Greenfield machine shop, had just turned off of West Daylight street to go through Ames road, a private thoroughfare.

The railroad crossing, 100 feet off the main road, is almost a blind crossing.

The car, which was a Worcester-bound train from Lowell and had been pushed 60 feet from the railroad track, was, it is reported, crushed under a signal post which was snapped off when the car struck it.

Remains of her body and the child were taken to the morgue for identification.

Her husband, who is a contractor, was taken to the hospital.

N. E. PLOT UPON DUCE PROBED

Federal agents were reported today to be investigating an anti-Fascist plot in New England alleged to be aimed at supporters of Premier Mussolini.

The plot is said to be in the nature of a boycott against Italian ships sailing and leaving Boston and New York ports.

Watch is being kept on a radical group said to be containing men of Italian birth or extraction in the vicinity of Commonwealth pier.

Some Italian allegedly written and printed by this group, which some believe is the headquarters of Mussolini, is the basis of the investigation.

IN COOKING

Clever cooks are learning that the best way to tell real quality mustard is to use it in cooking. They have discovered Golden's is the finest flavored Prepared Mustard for cold meats, sandwiches and frankfurters—also that it's the only mustard that blends perfectly with food even in cooking.

Try this easy recipe: Add 2 to 3 tablespoons of Golden's and one tablespoon sugar to a can of baked beans. Heat or bake for 15 minutes in saucepan or baking dish. Your husband will exclaim, "At last, real home-baked beans!"

Fashion Picks Andean Hues For Its Spring Color-Motifs

President's Visit to South Stirs Modes

You've heard of El Gaucho, the big, swaggering hero of the Argentine, of matadors and toreadors — of the turbulent, changing colors of an Andean sky?

Is it any wonder then, that fashion, ever-hungry for new and original ideas, should select the native treasures of our Southern neighbors for its spring inspiration?

If you want to feel extra-ordinarily chic, you can do this, dress for all things get acquainted with "Southwestern" (President's) Hues, and you'll be in the vanguard of a whole new fashion trend.

Diversified Pan-American fashion, styled for Easter week, was presented to Boston, at an exclusive affair given at the Hotel Carlton Hotel by the Boston Fashion Association.

Red Earth

"Red Earth" is a brilliant color, reminiscent of the rich, glowing color of Andean soil, with the extraordinary tones of the autumn, with yellow, green and tan predominating.

Mrs. William R. Bascom, chairman of the fashion jury, the corresponding vice-chairman, Mrs. Gloria Ingersoll, Mrs. Paul Gilbert, Miss Joan Mason, Miss Robert Knowles, Mrs. Charles W. Kelly, Mrs. Edward Bennett, Mrs. Francis Hill, Mrs. Lehigh Wainwright, Mrs. Richard L. Finkelman and Mrs. Thomas Burroughs.

Keen to the latest styles of the world of fashion, the three days of spring color-motifs, color and contrast, found full expression in the suit picture.

Buster Brown

However, it was a "Buster Brown" little suit, designed by Louise Milligan, that stood out with the important editorial honors.

This affair was a lovely, light afternoon dress with a large, wide collar of the red-earrings. An unusual (but very tasteful) made this costume one of the most outstanding of the show.

"Buster Brown" was worn for the first time in Boston. One of the first to be shown, this a Buster Brown suit, was fashioned in a "Charles Dyer" style, but of a different color. It was a new pinkish-blue, also made in detail here.

Suits finished with either beige or light for did not find favor with the jurors.

Society matrons who displayed the interesting costumes were Miss Phyllis Davis, Miss Mary Kopp, Miss Alice Scoville and Miss Ruth Scoville.

The following were associated with the Fashion Congress in presenting the "little suit" — Mrs. Jordan, Mary Company, Landon and Hubbard, C. T. Moore, Fred and Charles, H. H. Wray Company, Boston, Boston, Boston, C. K. Wray Company, Boston, C. K. Wray Company and Wray's, Boston, all of whom will be published for a week beginning tomorrow on the fashion pages of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

MRS. WILLIAM R. BASCOM

"Suit Yourself" This is the keynote of spring, 1937. Suits and color seem to be inseparable comrades this year, and not only will they establish your reputation for chic, but they will make life infinitely more exciting. And speaking of color—Miss Alice Scoville (left) is displaying an angers-tweed affair in the new "thistle" shade to Mrs. William R. Bascom, chairman of this week's Fashion Congress jury. "Thistle" has all the lush coloring of soft pink and violet and is really pretty luxurious looking no matter what color glasses you see it through.

QUIZ 5 YOUTHS IN HARRIS KILLING

Officials investigating the slaying of Chester Harris, five, of Cambridge, maintained silence today on the results of their questioning of five youths at Cambridge police headquarters.

The secrecy surrounding the questioning and the air of mystery attached to the procedure indicated that the investigators had uncovered an important clue which might lead to the trail of the boy-slayer.

Also being examined by police chemists today were the worn and stained overalls and shirt found by officers in a vacant lot not far from the Harris home. They had evidently been exposed for some time, police said.

The Harris boy disappeared late in the afternoon of last October 26, and no trace of him was discovered until his skeleton, shrouded in burial, was uncovered from a shallow grave behind a billboard at Western Avenue and Soldiers Field road, Brighton.

The boys and youths questioned by officials in charge of the case ranged in age from nine to 22 years and were all residents of the Harris neighborhood. They were quoted separately and were not allowed to talk together.

Polished drinking water and a complete lack of sanitary equipment as described by Colonel Kirk place Belchertown State School for young mental defective on a par with the Boston institution, where exposure have caused the most drastic cleanup in many years.

Many of the buildings at Boston State Hospital as well as at other state hospitals and schools are also branded by Colonel Kirk as fire-traps.

BIG EXPENDITURES NEEDED
Regarding Boston State Hospital, the public safety commission declares all the buildings should be razed and replaced by modern structures.

The commission Kirk's report was made in Dr. David L. Williams, new commissioner of mental diseases. His detailed report on various institutions coming under the Department of Mental Diseases in October.

Northampton State Hospital

North Infirmary Building, old, unsafe and absolutely needed to be replaced.

More than $100,000 needed to build a safe place to live in.

Present conditions are so cramped that a new building is needed to accommodate 50 to 100 more patients.

Danvers State Hospital
Complete re-wiring needed throughout all buildings to eliminate fire hazard.

Present antiquated equipment and system inside and out in need of complete change with modern standards.

Sum of $175,000 needed to correct improvements, and $27,500 needed for fire sprinklers.

Belchertown State School
Halted water piping is pulling down double in one place.

Water applied from ancient wells.

School practically without any safe cooking utensils, gas stove, electric range, sink, and other necessities.

Needs complete renovation and addition of several fire escapes on all buildings.

More care required on these buildings.

Medfield State Hospital
To make conditions hygienic for inmates, $30,000 is needed.

Boston State Hospital
In such a "ramshackle" condition and so antiquated that if possible all buildings should be razed and first class structures built in their place.

Most buildings of wood framing, with space between the floors and dangerous stairways without auditory except light shown on the outside.

Cost of replacement for modern, safe conditions $2,800,000. Time required six years.

Cost of replacing $2,800,000. East Building, $175,000; East E Building, $175,000; East K Building, $175,000; Dining Room Building, $175,000.

East Fire House, $60,000; West C Building, $40,000; West Staff Building, $40,000; West Kitchen, $20,000.

Needed for laundry equipment, for sanitary handling of eating and clothing, $10,000.

Walter E. Fernald State School, Waverley
Lowest amount necessary to take care of fire hazards is $45,640.

School is in immediate need of new stairways, fire exits and fire escapes.

Templeton Colony
(Part of Belchertown State School)
Five thousand dollars needed to get laundry system in proper working order. Not enough funds and washing machines to take care of the clothing needs of inmates.

Foxboro State Hospital
Foxboro State Hospital was labeled "a firetrap" condition at Foxborough, Westboro, Worcester and Taunton State Hospitals, all called "deplorable," but complete details on these five institutions were not available.

The following were the department requests for appropriations and the Governor's recommendations for appropriations for the various institutions.

BOSTON STATE HOSPITAL
Department requested $2,800,000. Governor recommended $2,800,000.

DANVER STATE HOSPITAL
Department requested $100,000. Governor recommended $100,000.

FOXBORO STATE HOSPITAL

FIRE HAZARDS BARED AT STATE HOSPITAL

Graphic details of fire hazards which existed at Boston State Hospital, Mattapan, were revealed today in a report to Dr. David L. Williams, commissioner of the department of mental diseases, by Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin.

Deputy Fire Chief Thomas H. Deane, made the investigation, which took two weeks. The report read:

Population 280-3000 patients. Recommended two motor trucks for hospital fire brigade to replace obsolete hand-drawn hose truck.

Emergency lighting equipment: Recommended that no matches, oil lamps or candles be permitted for emergency lighting—fluorescent be supplied.

Buildings well sprinklered with the exception of the hospital.

WORLD AGE BUILDING
West B—Infirmary for women—wing poorly recommended structural from basement to main floor.

Supplies of mattress workroom and removal of boxes of straw and hair kept there, ready for chair bolsters and pads.

West C—Third-class construction. "It would be better if this building were replaced with a frame building. One of the first construction."

West E—Wooden stair treads very badly worn—should be replaced—staircase above in basement should be removed to non-flammable building.

West F—367 male patients—Reinforced construction—Closets with wooden racks.

Should be replaced with metal racks. All rooming should be supplied with light-switches—should be changed to prevent tampering—Storage of rubbish on stairs leading to cellar should be discontinued—Closets pipes should be installed for wires in walls—Ladders for fire escape should be replaced—Fire door in cellar under West F—Two in need of repair.

OTHER HAZARDS
West G—146 males—old wooden racks should be replaced by metal racks used for clothing, etc.—kitchen lamps supplied to this building for emergency lighting should be replaced by flashlight—sprinkler heads should be installed in lines open, in dining room closet.

East A—Fire hose in stair well—East G—Fire hose on third floor should be replaced.

High—Eleven houses studied here on first floor—were applied instead of two extinguishers—no fire exits, six lengths of hose for washing, which are available for emergency—no safety pads should be installed here.

Those who have campaigned with and against the President know he loves nothing better than a stiff battle. His friends say he is prepared to pull every trick out of his bag—and they are numerous—to win this one.

The very nature of the rapidly mobilizing opposition is giving the chief executive an added incentive to hammer out a victory, these friends further aver. With state legislatures being importuned to adopt memorials of disapproval and with members of Congress being flooded by telegraphic protests, many in fluent language, the Roosevelt board of strategy senses the same underprover sources of opposition that developed in the bitter utilities holding company fight in the last Congress.

Alread the White House, in a very quiet way, was understood to be raising an inquiring eyebrow at certain Democratic measures. "I was not a supporter—and got active presidential support to insure their election last November, but who now are lifting their voices against Supreme Court 'rejuvenation.'"

Mr. Taft must live with the President for the next four years and depend upon him to a great extent for patronage and political favors. They are dealing with a second-term President who probably will not be re-elected. He will still be another campaign for personal reelection and who thus can afford to be ruthless with those who desert him in what he considers to

Mr. Roosevelt, according to those enjoying his confidence, did not step into this historic tug-of-war with the Supreme Court hastily. It was his first triumphant Sunday night back in Washington after last November's election that he called in Attorney General Cummings to debate the broad problem of how best the New Deal might overcome repeated frustrations in major policy at the hands of the high court.

Presidential aides now reveal that conferences were constant with a small and select group from that night up to last Friday when he tossed his judiciary reform bombshell on a startled nation.

Extent of opposition to such an unprecedented proposal as the addition of six new justices to the Supreme Court was farseen and carefully weighed by the President, say his close friends.

Chairman Hatton Sumners, Texas, of the House Judiciary Committee (right), is shown conferring with committee members, U. S. Washington, Feb. 11.—There is a sinister danger in any administration, regardless of party, in tampering with the Supreme Court of the United States.

There is an all too plausible suggestion of an attempt to control decisions of the court by packing it with those whose opinions coincide with the administration.

The independence of the government of the United States under the Constitution I think very clearly demands the outstanding success among the branches of the government.

The independence of the judiciary untrammelled by political influences, and the independence of the police performed indispensable service to the federal service of the United States. At times, on account of the increase in the population, certain parts of the country are congested in the docket; however, much of this has recently been caused by making the district courts ports of call for the federal police, with a deluge of petitions that really have no place in the federal court.

This condition arose by reason of the greedy grasp of power and jurisdiction by the federal government.

NO NECESSITY There is no necessity for any increase in the judiciary, either in the district courts or the Supreme Court. Last year we created a lot of additional judgeships, and we had to stretch our imagination to make some of them necessary. The office of federal judge is	DISCOUNTS AGE The President discounts age, experience and ripe wisdom when he would banish from the federal judiciary men over 70 years of age. don our Constitution.

There is no need for any so drastic action as the President proposes.

The latest report of the attorney general of the United States, filed in the early part of January, dictates that the docket of the Supreme Court and the dockets of the various trial courts throughout the United States are in a pitiful condition. There has been

The proposal of the President of the United States would make the judicial department subordinate to the executive.

Theoretically, a benevolent dictatorship by its very nature cannot be benevolent and if it were benevolent it would not be a dictatorship.

The mere fact that the executive branch of government do not agree with some of the opinions of the court is no justification for any such drastic action.

If there is any occasion for changing our fundamental law, when it should be done in an orderly process, in the manner provided for under the Constitution. Otherwise, if we are to be by statute to "kill" the Constitution, we abandon our constitutional government.

This government has a written constitution; it is a government of delegated powers.

To make one branch of the government subordinate to another would simply mean that we abandon insists on a light smoke

"My voice is my career. It has inspired more than five million people to confide in me their personal problems. During 25 years, first on the lecture platform and then on the air, I have never missed a single engagement because of my throat. I am a steady smoker, and because my throat and voice are vital to my career I insist upon a light smoke. In Luckies I find a light smoke plus the enjoyment of fine tobacco . . . and that's why Lucky Strikes have been my choice for 14 years."

11 PLANE CRASH VICTIMS DIED BY DROWNING

The International News Soundphoto shows wreckage of air liner which hurled 11 persons to their death in the south end of San Francisco bay. It is being hoisted from the water by

TIMILTY HELPS OUTLINE RAIDS

A systematic drive to wipe out the nation's traffic fatalities is under way, according to a report by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The report, titled "Traffic Safety Facts," states that the Department is committed to reducing the number of traffic fatalities and injuries. It outlines a series of strategies, including improving vehicle safety, enhancing driver education, and enforcing traffic laws.

The report also highlights the importance of public awareness campaigns and the role of law enforcement in reducing traffic fatalities. It emphasizes the need for a coordinated effort between government, industry, and the public to achieve this goal.

Los Angeles, Feb. 11—Leopold Stokowski, world famous orchestra leader and possessor of the most expressive hands in captivity, is actually going to emote in the next Deanna Durbin picture.

And how'd she explained later. It's the one I never forgot, a how and I know who is for I told you. The last time with a David, I remember they were leaving, she had to go. At the end of the day, all the boys

Clean Dishes Check Disease

By ROYAL S. COFFLAND, M.D.

I AM always impressed by the cleanliness and sanitation practiced by the first-class modern restaurants, soda fountains and hotels.

Many of the food prepared in these places is not only delicious but also very healthful. The reason for this is that the food is prepared in a clean and sanitary manner.

It is a good idea to eat at these places when you are traveling or when you are in a new city. This will help you to get used to the local food and to the local customs.

The fashion world is always full of new ideas and new styles. This year, the fashion world is particularly excited about the new styles that are being introduced.

One of the new styles is the use of bright colors. This is a departure from the traditional colors of the past.

Another new style is the use of bold lines. This is a departure from the traditional lines of the past.

There are many other new styles that are being introduced. These new styles are sure to make a big impact on the fashion world.

PRIVACYCLASS TALKS ON RADIO SOON

Harvard made preparations today to abandon one of its oldest and most cherished customs, that of keeping classroom lectures "off the record."

The university's new radio broadcasts will be made available to the public through a series of lectures on the radio. The first of these lectures will be given by Professor J. H. Pomeroy, who will discuss the history of the university and its role in the world.

Proved Worth

The new radio broadcasts of Harvard lectures have proved their worth in the first few days of their broadcast. The broadcasts have been well received by the public and have been a great success for the university.

Old Oysters Rich—Maybe

Old oysters are rich in calcium, and it is this calcium that makes them so valuable for the elderly. The calcium in oysters helps to strengthen the bones and prevent osteoporosis, a common problem in old age.

The Elves at Play: Fuller Ends Training For Andy Callahan

THE UPSTAIRS FIGHT STUDIO WHERE Sammy Fuller held a row night's match with Andy Callahan, is the building on upper Hanover street, just off the Cave of the Winds, where attached light managers and other men enjoy loving privileges and a sort of conversation. The atmosphere was quite different from the simple innocence of the rustic camps where heavyweight fighters train. There were no lumps of milk on the table fresh from the cow. There was no cow. There was no log. Nor any whelms to picture the gladiator trundling a "parrying mate" happily in a frolicsome interlude on the eye of the big contest.

As the fight went on, the atmosphere became more and more tense. The fighters were now in a real battle. The crowd was cheering and the fighters were fighting hard. The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it.

MR. SUNDEL RHAPSODISES

MORRIS SUNDEL, THE STUDIO CHAPERONE, was telling a host of tales. "This is a fight fan's fight. Two boys to fight for each other. They don't know nothing but punch, punch, punch. I see them fight the last time, ten rounds, like a couple of Harry Grebs." He waxed poetic, "Two finely trained, young, fearless little marvels, fighting for the honor of sunny Italy and for the pride of the Irish followers of Andy Callahan."

The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it. The fighters were fighting hard and the crowd was cheering. The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it.

VALENTI HAS GOOD ADVANCE SALE

MR. RIP VALENTI, THE PRODUCER OF the fight, wandered up most of the way of the crowd. A bystander whispered inquisitively, "Sure," said Valenti, "We got plenty left. Not too plenty. I advise you to hurry my friend." The bystander, a look of pain on his features, whispered a, "Horror struck Valenti's countenance. He made an irritable motion and said, "Now, what's the matter, there ain't any free lat."

The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it. The fighters were fighting hard and the crowd was cheering. The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it.

LAWRENCE SHOWS INTEREST

HIS CONDITIONING DONE, FULLER stripped off his rusted gloves and handed them, moist with vaseline and perspiration, to his male nurse. His hair is crinkled in mud and is the fresh above his eyes is thick with sweat. He says, puffed from years of punching, are stretched into a habitual leer.

Mr. Sunfel, a husky, is a large of the crowd. He is a large of the crowd. He is a large of the crowd.

The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it. The fighters were fighting hard and the crowd was cheering. The fight was a real one and the crowd was enjoying it.

Lewis Haney Says:

Indications Show
BOND PRICES
Near Top Level

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University
New York, Feb. 11.—There have been a great many evidences that the prices of high-grade bonds have risen almost as high as they can go.

During the past few months several new issues have proved to be "sticky"—in other words, have sold slowly.
Several recent issues have had to be sold in price, so as to give a higher yield to the purchaser.

This condition is not confined to the United States. From England come reports of a similar nature.

The most important question raised by this condition concerns the trend of long-term interest rates. The yield of bonds is the interest on invested capital. If high-grade bond prices are trending down, then bond yields are trending up, and the long-term interest rate is rising.

My thought about the matter is that the trend of long-term interest rates is about to turn upward and that it is only a question of time before a trend toward higher yields becomes generally established.

I doubt, however, that any sharp or catastrophic change will occur, and would not be surprised if yields on the average run of government bonds showed little change for several months.

Naturally, the chief effect is to be expected in the "government" and "municipal," where a special situation has existed. In these classes of bonds, however, yields are not extraordinarily low today. Until there has been a further rise in short-term money rates, it is doubtful if such bonds will be much affected.

As to the stock market, there are plenty of troubles, in the way of wild and unsmooth action by the New Dealers and by certain labor leaders. Neither the money rate situation nor the bond market, however, constitutes any threat.

In fact, if the government comes to have any trouble with its bonds, it will be more than ever likely to give stimulants.

It seems that the various factors which are now affecting bond prices and yields are as follows:

1.—Some classes of bonds are priced as low as is humanly possible.

2.—There has arisen an increased competition among borrowers who, in a sense, missed the market for cheapest refunding operations.

3.—There has come a more general acceptance of the conclusion that inflation is upon us, and that commodity prices are in a long-term rising trend.

4.—The stock market has come to compete more effectively with the bond market for uninvested funds.

5.—In this connection, one notes some drift toward new corporate financing through issues of "rights" to subscribe to stock. More attention is paid to the convertible feature in bonds—that is, the privilege some bonds give the holder to change them into common stock.

6.—Probably the productivity of capital that is invested in industrial plant and equipment has increased. This would not only allow higher yields to be paid, but would increase the industry of demand for funds.

Certainly the combination of rising commodity prices and increasing labor costs tends to encourage a greater use of machinery, both absolutely and relatively.

The most abnormal part of the condition lies in short-term money rates.

Judging by experience, however, these rates could double or triple before any strain sufficient to cause serious trouble in the "stock-out" would be indicated to anyone but an anguished "old-out" bull.

BUILDING PERMITS

The January building permit volume showed a decline from December that was somewhat more than seasonal, but continued substantially above the corresponding month of 1936, despite floods and unseasonable weather in many sections of the country.

The total estimated cost of January permits for the 215 cities reporting to the U. S. Department of Commerce was $10,341,235. This was a drop of 14.2 per cent from the $12,075,963 reported in December. The month of January, however, was about 12 per cent below the corresponding month of last year, when permits aggregated $12,075,963.

New York City permits amounted to $1,829,272, showed a decline of 2.4 per cent from December, and were also 10.4 per cent below January, 1936. The month of January, however, was about 12 per cent below the corresponding month of last year, when permits aggregated $12,075,963.

The group totals of building permits for the 215 cities for January, this year, and last, together with percentage changes, are shown in the following table:

City	1937	1936	% Chg.
New York	1,829,272	2,045,000	-10.6
Los Angeles	1,200,000	1,300,000	-7.7
Chicago	1,100,000	1,200,000	-8.3

Comments of Brokers

Conservative trading policy would dictate taking some profits but the technical action of the market remains so satisfactory and business is so good that such a course might mean missing substantial additional profits.—J. S. Wilson, Josephthal & Co.

verses in attempting to guard against a decline of intermediary proportions, following completion of the current upturn. Meanwhile, until the possibilities for development along the latter lines have been entirely eliminated, we desire to pursue a policy of allowing the market to prove itself.—J. E. Kolloy — Hurnbld & Weeks.

Although no real weakness has appeared in stocks, the market is showing signs of a general loss of strength day after day, but there is no extensive follow-through. It is rather an all-around decline of individual stocks' rather than a "stock market," which is all the way up of saying there is no general all-around decline in general trend. H. D. Conner—Palm Beach.
